

The Central European Economic Journal publishes original theoretical and empirical research papers in the field of economics as well as at the intersection of economics and sociology, demography, political science, law and management:

- macro- and microeconomics
- labour market research
- international trade
- population studies
- public sector economics
- public policies
- health, gender, ecological economics
- finance, accounting
- managerial economics

The CEEJ addresses the broad international community, but especially welcomes papers which focus on socio-economic problems relevant for Central and Eastern Europe, including the European transition countries.
